Senior Pastor

I'm still thanking God for Anniversary SouthCentral 2015 and all of the blessings that came with it—ones that we may not even recognize until some time later. We thank God for some other things along the way, like the inspiring, imitable B. B. Gatson. This classic deliverer of the Word was and is for us a God sent messenger. How he fed our souls and challenged our spirits. (And after all, is that not what anniversary is all about?) Sure it's about the singing and the celebrating, but deeper than that, anniversary ought to mark another starting point—a new beginning.

I thank God for willing workers who stick and stay with it. We have several, and I am not about to start listing names for fear of leaving one precious soul out. That being said—we don't have enough of these soldiers. If there is anything we need to take and push for coming out of our 17th anniversary, it should be answering the call for service in the Kingdom of God.

I look around our church and see many who have usable gifts and talents—who use them in every area of life, but have yet to give them over to ministry in the church. Consider this your ever-standing invitation to get involved in SouthCentral. SouthCentral belongs to you. You belong to SouthCentral. Connect those dots and fill in the blanks with your name and your action—starting now! I thank God for you considering it.

Sunday morning Bible classes have resumed after a one month hiatus. We did this for mostly for our teachers and education workers who have labored faithfully, most of them for the past 17 years. We are blessed by their dedication and in these years they have taught and touched the lives of countless children and young people. I remind them of that. I will continue to remind all of us of that. When it seems like your impact is nothing and that no one is listening, years later God will reveal to you someone who was listening—someone who DID get it. Please commit yourself to being with us on Sunday mornings and or Wednesday nights at 9am and 6:30pm respectively. You'll be blessed. You will grow. You will be challenged to meet the challenges of your everyday life, and most importantly, it will glorify God. Look on the opposite side of this month's Skylight for classes, teachers and class locations. As always we urge you to invite your friends, family, co-workers and neighbors. This is how relationships are formed in Christ and Bible class is an informal, visitor friendly way to share Christ with others we know.

We are restoring the annex building for our use once again. The heavy rains of the spring and early summer took a toll on it. We had some professional work done and now it is time for us to pitch in and help get it back together. A church work day has been called for Saturday September 12th at 9am. We need all able bodied men and women to assist us in this effort. I remind you that great things are on the horizon for SouthCentral's facilities. In the meantime we must make the best use of what we have. Lord willing before year's end, we will have something more complete and specific to present to the church about our plans and about our future.

As always, I refer you to our website, sctyler.com, and our Facebook page. Announcements and SouthCentral happenings are always showcased as well as other encouraging news and testimonials. Praise IS what we do!
