SouthCentral 730 Ends October 4th

Our early Sunday service has been quite the challenge and created a different mood and atmosphere since its inception the first of May. It was a leap of faith to say the least and actually did some things for SouthCentral other than requiring extra-early rising for more than a few. One of the things it did was give more workers an opportunity to serve. The problem is—it wasn't enough. Whether I underestimated the need of resource people or not remains to be seen, but I am still encouraged by those brothers who made it their business to be present and upfront these past few months. However, upon examining, reexamining, and accessing the situation, it has been decided to discontinue 730 at this time. We look forward to looking at this reassessing this option some time in the future. Now that we know what to expect and how the flow goes, we will know more of what to look for and what our needs will be to support such a daring service. I encourage and expect our brothers who worked the 730 to incorporate their gifts and enthusiasm into the 10:00 worship. We do so need to use more of our men and boys rather than using the same ones. Burn-out is an issue that must always be addressed and we have enough men at SouthCentral to do what needs to be done. What it takes is more dedication and personal commitment, qualities we not only want from the male members, but from the sisters as well. Fortunately, we did not delve into the marketing and advertising level of 730. It would have been a shame to reach out to others and not be able to adequately serve them and be organized once they got here.

Our deacons and I are working on a roster and schedule of those who will be serving each Sunday. In addition, we will also be announcing training classes for serving in worship, which will include ALL men and boys from 8 years up. Please pay close attention to the announcements and the website for more details and times. There will be some noticeable changes in the logistics of our worship services and we want all involved to be informed and on top of their game. After all, we must always give God our best!

We give God all the glory for what SouthCentral 730 did show and bring us, especially a new member (Charlotte Johnson) who we added during its brief run.

Organization is a must and we are only as good as the organizing we actually do. Therefore I am urging all of us to find our ministry and calling and then DO what we commit to do (and more if possible—and with God ALL things are! Matthew 19:26. Let's continue to celebrate life together and with the Lord not only in worship, but in our daily walk and talk. In the meantime, let's just look forward to what God is going to do at this place!
